IPPE featured networking, education and innovative technology all in one place!

Sessions that focused on food safety, plant operations, sustainability and other current industry topics were offered during the week of IPPE.

Areas in all three halls that featured wireless internet service, charging stations, comfortable seating and IPPE networking opportunities.

Short educational sessions by exhibitors regarding operations and technical issues critical to all aspects of the feed, meat and poultry industries.

Attendees from all over the world attended the Welcome Reception held at the Georgia Aquarium to network.

Areas in all three halls that featured cutting and cooking demonstrations and competitions.

Designed to offer attendees an opportunity to experience chefs preparing and cooking beef, chicken, pork and turkey products.

IPPE offered delegation assistance and buyer matchmaking, as well as prearranged briefings and meetings customized according to buyer interests, through the International Buyer Program of the U.S. Department of Commerce.
